History discovered in old IGA building

by Joe Banks

It was like a scene from that old television serial, The Twilight Zone.

There the construction workers were, in downtown Haliburton, tearing apart the old IGA building last week, when one of the men found a package. And that package was history.

Letters enclosed detail the construction of the store in 1940, and give progress reports of the business right up until 1956. There were also old newspapers with huge, black headlines announcing the main stories of the day dealing primarily with the Second World War.

But the most interesting history that came out of the package are the typed accounts of the Haliburton that was. The package from the past was placed above the front window of the store when the former owner, Jack Robertson, renovated the building.

The first letter is entitled the "Account of the erection of this building". Coincidentally, demolition of the large verandah which was to make way for the store began on April 8, 1940, almost 40 years and a few weeks to the day the old store was torn down. The stock was moved into the building, and business began. According to the letter, "Everybody declared it to be a most modern and up-to-date store."

Aileen Robertson also wrote in detail about the companies and the men who assisted in building the store, and listed the other merchants in the town. With foresight like that of a psychic, she wrote, "This sketch (of the building) is being buried behind the Masonite of the store in the hope that in years to come the information herein contained may prove interesting, and valuable should the building be torn down, or remodelled."

The second letter is a biography of Jack Robertson, who expressed his concern over the Nazi threat at the time.

"In the fall of 1936," he wrote, "I built a new home beside the Lakeshore garage, where I hope to enjoy a good many more years of life, unless the Germans under Herr Hitler run loose and bomb us." He then advises to see the accounts in the enclosed Telegram and Lindsay Posts, which were included in the package.

"Business has prospered..." they write in a further account written in 1956. The letter outlined the changes that happened to the village over the years.

And in a final paragraph, before the letter was deposited, the health, and the deaths of relatives were not forgotten.

"We have all enjoyed good health. Jacqueline is now teaching in a Kindergarten in Peterborough. Mother died in 1954. Dad in 1947. Holly in 1947 and Grandma Mac in 1941."

The rest is just history.

ERECTION OF BUILDING

On April 8, 1940 Rosie Brohm, widow of the late John Brohm gave J. A. Robertson a clear deed for this property, on which was a large dwelling house formerly owned by Mr. Walter Austin.

In the afternoon of the same day, workers began to tear down the large verandah, and make way for the erection of the new store out to the sidewalk. On the evening of June 5, stock was moved in ready for business. Everybody declared it to be a most modern and up-to-date store. Mr. Robertson had

Cigarette blamed for killer blaze at Cardiff townsite

No inquest will be held into the death of a 66-year old woman who died from smoke inhalation in a fire at Cardiff, April 27.

The fire, which occurred at 41 Hemlock Road, claimed the life of Helen Irene McBride.

According to the Apsley detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police, a fire broke out in an upstairs living room, where Mrs. McBride was sleeping. James McBride, her husband, was sleeping downstairs and woke up when he smelled smoke. He was unable to enter the room Mrs. McBride was in because of thick smoke and left the house to get assistance from his neighbours. When they returned, the smoke was heavier, making it impossible to enter the house again.

The Cardiff Volunteer Fire Department received the call at approximately 9:30 p.m.

Fire Marshal, John McKenzie of Bracebridge attended the scene, and established that the fire had started in an armchair in the front right corner of the room in which Mrs. McBride was sleeping. A lighted cigarette is thought to have touched off the blaze.

Coroner Dr. Henrik Christiansen from Bancroft attended the scene and pronounced Mrs. McBride dead.

The Ontario Canoe and Kayak team time trials were held on the Horseshoe River near Minden, Sunday.

Dreams of a pulp mill long way from reality commission discovers

Construction of a $450 million pulp mill that would create 750 new jobs in Haliburton County could hinge on the county's ability to obtain DREE funding and other government funds.

That was the major point made at an Economic Development Commission workshop on forestry held at the Stanhope Firefighter's Hall last week.

The possibility of a central mill being constructed in the county has been talked about for some time, especially by Anson, Hindon and Minden reeve Sinc Nesbitt, but a public discussion on its feasibility has never been held.

"We have a sponsor for the mill," said Nesbitt, "but we need DREE and government funding."

Martin Lumber, Nesbitt said, would partially finance a mill if these conditions were met.

Nesbitt pushed the idea of a central pulp mill located in the county at the workshop, but Greenville Martin of Martin Lumber and vice-president of the Ontario Forest Industries Association, pointed out several "hurdles" the county and investors would have to overcome before such a mill is built.

Martin said he felt that "industry here should put their money back into industry," and outlined three major changes that would have to take place. The first is the necessity of DREE funding, an incentive that would help to attract investors into the area. To consider a large number of investors putting money in the county without the presence of DREE, he said, "doesn't make sense."

Martin's second point was transportation availability for the industry. He said the county "is not well suited" to the transportation of lumber over long distances. The road system going east to centres such as Ottawa and Montreal, he said, "is a real problem."

He added that any shipments made over 200 miles would have to be transported by train, since trucking costs are becoming more expensive. Without the presence of a main line in the area, the possible re-opening of the county's branch line may not make too much difference in costs, since shipping on a branch rail line is often more expensive than trucking a product over the same distance, Martin said.

His third point was the effect on tourism such an industry would have. "Because of the tourist, there is a high awareness of the environment. The investor is going to look at the bottom line before anything else..."

"With any kind of a mill, you're going to have some pollution," he said.

Earlier in the meeting Nesbitt said county residents should not put a pulp mill "on the bottom of the list" because of what he termed "a little bit of pollution." He quoted figures, saying that most mills are 90 percent "clear and pure mills - that leaves 10 percent polluting."

Employers, students are making use of Manpower Outreach office in Haliburton

More student jobs available this summer

There are approximately ten percent more summer jobs available to students this year than last year, according to the director of the Canada Manpower Outreach office in Haliburton village.

As of last Monday, there were 119 student jobs open, and there has been a "tremendous response" by students in the area, director Jane Heppleston said.

The reasons for the increase are two-fold.

Firstly, she said, "we've made Outreach more well-known." Advertising and information meetings such as the recent economic development seminars have helped to "make it more publicly known what the advantages are at Outreach," both to the public and employees. As the office gets more widely known among employers, she said "people aren't afraid to find out about it." Employers have called the office from locations as far away as Kimbrough recently to submit job offers. The student, too, is more aware of the office's potential. "They know we exist and they are using us," she said.

Students have registered earlier at the office this year, and in more numbers. The reason for this, according to Heppleston, is that more and more employers are refusing to hire students "off the road", and will tell a student to register at the Outreach office first. This year, students have been "a very keen, competitive" group, and seem to be more intent on getting jobs than in previous years.

A second reason for the increase in available jobs, said Heppleston, is a slight increase in local, new businesses. Facilities at some lodges and camps have expanded, and employers who hired three or four students at one time last summer are now hiring six, seven or even eight students.

Programs such as Young Canada Works or the Ontario Youth Employment Program (OYEP) which wholly or partially finance employee wages are being utilized more by employers, because of increased knowledge of the programs themselves.

Heppleston added that more employers are opting in favour of using local students. Approximately 90 percent of the students working in the county at summer jobs last year were from the county, the remainder being from Toronto and area. She pointed out that the outside workers are usually children of summer residents, and she would like to see more outside students comprise a slightly higher proportion of local summer workers. She said the summer residents also pay taxes to support the Outreach centre, and should be able to take advantage of its benefits the same way as year-round residents.

The main seasonal employers in the county are the Local forests could support five furniture plants, meeting is told Enough hardwood is shipped out of Haliburton County to keep four or five substantial furniture plants operating, according to Greenville Martin of Martin Lumber, the county's largest lumber operation.

Martin made the comment at the economic development forestry workshop at the Stanhope Firefighter's Hall last week.

"I firmly believe the largest potential is the furniture," Martin said. He presented the workshop with statistics of forest produce within the county to substantiate his claims.

The value of products from the forest industry in Haliburton County annually include lumber, $14,500,000; chips, $7,000,000; veneer plants and the like, $3,000,000, for a total of $24,500,000, 40 percent of which is exported to other countries.

Some 6,000,000 feet (board measure) of saw logs, according to Martin, are shipped out of the county, while 13,000,000 board feet of saw logs are brought in for local manufacture. Martin said the county exports 15,000,000 board feet annually of kiln dried birch, oak and maple and pine to furniture plants, flooring plants and dimension cut-up plants. The county also exports about five to six million board feet of railway ties to treating plants.

He said the wood the county ships out could be utilized by prospective plants here. The demand for wood fibres, he said, "is on the increase." Dividends made by the forest industry in the county were "pretty healthy for '78", and Martin said he predicts an optimistic future of the logging industry in the county in the 80's and 90's.

Hospital Day a time to reflect on local facilities

Hospital Day is Saturday, May 12, and facilities around the county will be celebrating their past and present accomplishments.

And the two hospitals here in Haliburton County have certainly earned that right of praise; just take a look at their track records.

The year 1971 was of particular interest to local Red Cross employees, for it was the year Haliburton Village received a new Red Cross hospital, replacing the old outpost where the health unit is located now. In that first year of operation, the staff became familiar with larger numbers of patients. Total in-patients numbered 372, while total out-patients totalled 2,003. There were 31 births that year and 18 deaths.

The facility's second year saw only slight changes, with total out-patient care rising 65 cases, admissions rising 16, births rising by nine and deaths by three.

The increase in patients over the years has also increased the hospital's role in other ways. Technical equipment such as an X-ray machine, heart monitors and other equipment have been obtained to assist the staff in the increasingly important role of local health care.

By last year, admissions topped 535 patients, with 5,841 out-patients receiving treatment. The number of births leaped to 60 and deaths remained at 17, a number which has remained basically unchanged over the years.

During the winter months, the Haliburton Red Cross hospital sees fewer patients than in the summer. A typical winter month in 1978 saw 34 patients admitted. But July of the same year proved to be substantially busier with 58 admissions.

The Red Cross hospital in Minden has also treated an increasing number of patients over the years for 1974 show admissions totalled 387, out-patients totalled 1,953, and there were 11 births. Deaths are not kept as a monthly statistic. From that year, numbers rose, but only slightly. It wasn't until 1978 the numbers drastically changed in the ten-bed hospital.

In 1978 there were 418 admissions, a rise of 64 over the previous year. Out-patients total broke the 3,000 mark, beating the 1977 tally of 2,539 by a considerable margin. Interestingly enough, the tendency toward smaller families is beginning to be felt in the area; births at the Minden hospital went from nine in 1976, right down to two in 1977, and none in 1978.

Both hospitals in the county have managed to handle the increasing workloads adequately and since the Red Cross hospital role study was published last year both hospitals have received considerable publicity.

The study recommended changes in the roles of both hospitals, but its recommendations have not been acted upon. So the hospitals remain vital parts of the communities they serve, a role most people hope they will continue to fill for years to come.

Job prospects brighter for area students

lodges, camps and tourist-related businesses, and it's for this reason that many jobs must be started before high school is completed. University students attempt to obtain jobs which are the highest paying, such as government road work, and consequently, the lodge owner is now waiting until high school is finished. "It can get a little hectic for the employer," said

Heppleston.

But perhaps the biggest problem the Outreach office has encountered this year in placing all the jobs during the peak periods of late April, May and June, is the lack of calls by persons or employers who have already found what they're looking for. Most applicants do not tell the office when they've received a job, or if they're moving, said Heppleston. And some employers will hire help without calling as well. The problem has become so bad, she calls it their "Bane of frustration - we tell the people constantly to keep in touch so we don't send people who don't exist."

The problem adds to the workload, and the staff at the office is now finding it hard to keep up.

"When you're talking about 119 openings, to place these between the three of us is quite an horrendous thing," she said.

But despite the difficulties, Mrs. Heppleston believes the employers in the area have aided the office considerably.

"I think it's just marvellous the way they respond to help us," she said.

Pulp mill will face some major hurdles

he said. "The pulp would create some smell."

During the question period, Martin outlined specifically the costs of manpower, and the implications, involved in the construction of a pulp mill. He said 250 people would have to be imported from outside of the county to help run a 1,400 ton per day operation. The wood supply would be "no problem". The problem would come he said, with water.

"I just don't know where there's enough water in the county even without regards to tourism," Martin said. Such a plant would require enormous amounts of water to function, and the pollution of the waters would be another problem investors would have to come to terms with. The mill would service all suppliers within an 80-mile radius, Martin said.

The remainder of the participants at the workshop stressed the importance and increasing possibilities of the forest industry in the county. Elgin Stouffer, deputy reeve of Stanhope Township, and small mill owner, said the "forest industry is still probably the most important economic factor in the economy of Haliburton County." Forest management in the area Stouffer feels should be "the area of attack." He claimed that this type of forest "Enhancement" could double or triple the forest based industry in the county. He claimed "the Ministry of Natural Resources could be a lot more effective in the implementation of forest management without knowledgeable assistance. Specifically, I would support the starting of a pulp mill in this area to use our vast quantities of low grade stock," Stouffer said. He was critical of funding experts who were also present at the meeting. "At the present time, the funding experts tend to veer away from the small, financially fragile operator."

Financing became a major topic at the workshop, and representatives from the Federal Business Development Bank (F.B.D.B.), the Toronto Dominion Bank in Minden and the Ontario Development Corporation discussed the type of financing available to mills just starting up. It was pointed out that a feasibility study for the mill proposal would cost an estimated $25,000.

But it was Sinc Nesbitt who had the last word at the workshop.

"Forever we have people coming to tell us about money," he said. "We have a sponsor for the mill, but we need DREE and government funding."

formerly carried on a flourishing business in meats and groceries across the street for 12 years in the store owned by Bruno Tibery, who also owned the fruit store next door.

The men who worked at this building were: Fred Edmonds, head carpenter Alvin Walling, assistant; Oliver Sholer; Ernest Simpson (brother-in-law of Robertson from Woodville); others who worked at digging for the foundation, etc. were: Keith Brannigan, Wallace Wood, Arvine Bird, Harvey Fair, Vivan Scheffee, Harry Davis. These men were all excellent workers, and deserved great praise for the interest they took in the work.

The lumber for the building was purchased from local lumbermen such as C. W. Hodgson, W. R. Curry and Frank Biagi. The Masonite and hardwood flooring from Ed Sedgwick, rep. of River-Lumber Co. Toronto. Ed Hunter of the Lakeshore garage painted the Masonite. The electrical supplies were purchased from Holly Robertson, brother, and proprietor of Wig-a-Mog Inn, on Lake Kushog. Herb Clement did the wiring. At the time of writing the Masonite is going on the front of the store and the brick insul on the sides. It is expected to be finished about June 18.

The businessmen in town at this time are: George, Earle and Russel Dart, in general store; Norman Roberts in groceries, drugs and newspapers; Saul Bernstein, general store; Ray Archer, Kosy Korner restaurant; Bruno Tibery, fruit store; Bob Brohm, groceries and meat; Jack Pollard and Irene, gents furnishings and ladies ready to wear; "Doc" Thompson 5 cents to $1. store; Margaret Nichol, tea room; Chas. Haggan, bank manager; Bruce Biggart, teller; Grace Latimer, stenographer; Jack Richardson, manager of this Northern Highway; Dr. Speck and Dr. Carroll were the two doctors in town, while the head nurse at the Outpost Hospital, Miss E. Watts. There is some plan on foot to enlarge this hospital. Dorothy Clarke is the Post Mistress assisted by Miss Cora Robertson. Last but not least comes Hugh Burke in a new restaurant at the foot of the street. The councillors are: Ronald Curry, reeve, G. E. Earle, Fred Jones, Bob Nichol, Winnet Austin. These also comprise the electric light commission; the telephone com. consists of Bruce Gould, Percy Bolander, and Holly Robertson. They have just purchased a lot beside this store to build a new telephone office. The ministers at this time are: United - M. R. Brown; Anglican - Cannon Battersby; Baptist - Mr. Bee; Catholic - no priest stationed here permanently. The dairy business is run by Sam Walling and two sons Lester (married) and Steven. Frank English drives the Shell gas truck and Earle Whiteside the Imperial.

An apartment was made in the upstairs of the original house and Whitesides moved in. These people came from Burke's Falls.

This sketch is being buried behind the Masonite of the store in the hope that in years to come the information herein contained may prove interesting, and valuable should the building be torn down, or remodelled. It was compiled by the wife of the owner.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF THE LIFE OF JOHN ALEXANDER ROBERTSON

I was born on the 15th day of September 1902, on a farm in Allsaw between Haliburton and Minden. I attended the Allsaw school, where I also received some high school training. At the age of 17, I helped my father on the farm, and in the winter worked out in the lumber woods.

In 1924, my father (Wm. Robertson) and myself started a butcher business selling meat from a 1921 Ford Touring car. In 1926, we enlarged the business and bought a /22 Ford truck. On Nov. 5/28 we dissolved partnership owing to my father's age, and I came to Haliburton where I rented a store from John Brohm on Main St. Here I carried on business for nearly 12 years; each year's business increased until my place was too small, so purchased the property here-in described.

On Sept. 22, 1934, I took upon myself a good wife, Alleen Simpson, of Woodville, who was a former school teacher at "Gould's". On August 17, 1935, a baby girl was born, Doris Jacqueline, and at time of writing she is nearly 5 years old; a strong and healthy girl.

Moss Robertson (cousin) started to work for me as clerk and butcher in May 1930 and is still there; a very faithful and conscientious worker. Owen Morrison has also worked for me five years.

I have two brothers in the Wig-a-Mog hotel, and two sisters, one in Hamilton, the other in Haliburton, both married. My mother and father are still living at the ages of 71 and 78; my grandmother on my mother's side is also living at 91.

In the fall of 1936 I built a new home beside the Lakeshore garage where I hope to enjoy a good many more years of life, unless the Germans under Herr Hitler run loose and bomb us. (See accounts in "Telegram" and "Post" also buried in this building.)

Election '79: Area candidates speak out on the issues

Editor's Note: Voters in Victoria-Haliburton will go to the polls May 22 to elect a new federal government. In order to make an informed choice, voters should be aware of the issues for which the individual candidates stand. Since personal contact between the voters and the party representatives has so far been extremely limited in the low key campaigns the three major candidates are running, voters may be hard pressed to know what those candidates believe. In the next two weeks, therefore, the Echo will make space available to all three candidates in which they can air their views through press releases. The releases are here reproduced largely as they were received, with a minimum of editing. While this way of presenting the issues is far less satisfactory than personal contact between voters and candidates at public meetings, it is hoped that it will at least provide area voters with some basic information with which to assess the candidates.

DAVID LOGAN LIBERAL

David Logan, Liberal candidate for Victoria and Haliburton Counties while attending a series of coffee parties in the Wilfrid-Beaverton area spoke out on housing.

Logan said owning a home not only gives the person a place to live but a sense of belonging and an economic stake in the community with which he lives. Governments throughout history have encouraged Canadians to become homeowners.

Logan stressed that it is not all Canadians who need encouragement but rather those who have young families and modest incomes who need assistance and encouragement to purchase their first home.

The Liberal candidate took issue with the scheme espoused by Tory candidate Bill Scott as one that is not needed because it's too expensive and because it assists those that have money far more than those who do not. Logan was referring to the Tory plan to deduct mortgage interest payments from their income tax.

The National Council of Welfare estimates that the Conservative plan will cost $3 billion a year at the time when the public and many politicians alike are calling for restraint in government spending. The proposal which Scott supports will give a large chunk of the treasury to people who already own their homes, Logan said. The hand-out, moreover, would be bigger for higher income people owning higher priced homes. That's because tax deductions are more valuable to people who pay high taxes; the home owner with little or no taxable income receives few, if any, benefits from the tax deduction.

As the C.D. Howe Institute says in a highly critical report of the Conservative proposal, its costs far exceed its benefits because it will increase housing prices, thus adding to inflation, and increase government deficits.

Moreover, there is little evidence that Clark's policies would really boost home ownerships, Logan said. The United States has had a similar scheme since the 1930's yet its level of home ownership is about the same as Canada's.

Logan threw out some open-ended questions: Under the Tory plan how is the renter assisted? How is the pensioner who has bought and paid for his home assisted? How is the farmer who owns his farm assisted? and, is the low income person assisted as much as the high income person?

The answers are obvious. The plan is irresponsible, ill conceived, designed to attract votes, and defies the logic and good sense that is inherent in sound economic theory, Logan said.

Logan said he is in favour of a plan that would help those who are most in need of government assistance: a family with low income and/or the first time home owner. Plans in support of this policy would cost far less and would be in line with the public's cry for restraint on government spending. A blank cheque cannot be issued. Control is required and at this juncture it appears that the Liberal party is the only party that will exert the leadership, restraint, and control that is necessary to ensure a stable economy, Logan said.

BILL SCOTT

"Joe Clark's proposal to make mortgage interest and property taxes a deductible expense from taxable income has become one of the hottest items in the current federal election campaign," Bill Scott said in a statement released this week.

Scott is the Progressive Conservative candidate in Victoria-Haliburton, and is making his fourth bid for re-election to Parliament.

"Clark's political opponents have been spreading false and misleading information, on both the national and local levels, in an effort to confuse the public about the plan," Scott charged, "but it isn't working."

"The Clark proposal has literally 'caught fire' in the opening weeks of this campaign," Scott said, "and the Canadian public have decided they like the look and the sound of it."

Scott said that he believes that the people of Canada have a clear option on election day.

"Taking the mortgage interest deductibility plan as just one of the proposals in Clark's economic recovery program, the Canadian voter can choose between Joe Clark's sound and practical proposals and Trudeau's empty promises."

"Our plan must have considerable merit," Scott added, "because even as they (the Liberals) attack it, they are pushing their own plan, which is simply a modified version of the Clark plan."

Scott said it is sheer speculation for anyone to suggest how much the Clark plan would cost the federal government in lost revenues, and he said that any direct loss of revenue would be more than offset by benefits accruing from the economic stimulus that would result from increased housing construction and sales.

"There are about 70,000 homes on the market waiting for buyers," he said, "and the unemployment rate in our construction industry is about 20 percent."

"It stands to reason that, if there is a surge in housing sales, the construction industry will have to be cranked up again, getting thousands of construction workers back on the job."

Scott said the Clark plan would benefit renters as well as potential buyers, because owners of rental properties would benefit from the tax deductions, and that those benefits would have to be passed along to renters.

Although there are tens of thousands of families that would like to buy their own homes if they could be made affordable, "some families and singles prefer to rent, and we believe that renting should be an option, not a necessity," Scott said.

Answering charges that the Clark mortgage interest deductibility plan would only benefit the rich, Scott said that statistics show that, in 1976, 67 percent of all Canadian homeowners had incomes of less than $15,000 per year, and more than 40 percent had incomes of less than $10,000 per year.

"The Trudeau government drafted a mortgage interest deductibility plan, copied directly from the Tory plan but less attractive, and they say that they are going to wait until the economy recovers before they put it into place," Scott said.

"By way of contrast, Joe Clark plans to implement his plan immediately, as a part of a national economic recovery plan. Trudeau's priority is to wait. Joe Clark's priority is to act. In my view, the choice is clear," Scott concluded.

PATRICK DANIEL, NDP

On Wednesday evening, May 2, there was a meeting held in the union hall near Nepton in Peterborough County. The guest speakers were the two New Democratic candidates in the federal ridings concerned. Cyril Carter, NDP candidate in the Peterborough riding where Nepton is located, spoke of the need for Canada to control its basic resource industries, and to develop its secondary manufacturing to create jobs for Canadians.

Patrick Daniel, NDP candidate in Victoria-Haliburton, gave the following address:

Cyril Carter, is a strong candidate in the Peterborough riding. I hope that he will be able to repeat the New Democratic Party success which Walter Pitman had in Peterborough when we were just getting the New Democratic Party off the ground eighteen years ago. The voters of Peterborough then showed that they were ready for some new ideas on the political scene.

I am finding that in Victoria-Haliburton the same thing is true. Those I meet are looking for a fresh approach to the problems of the country; they are looking for policies oriented to the vast majority of families in this country where the income level is under $20,000 a year. All the NDP policies are designed to give the most help to the group at the lower end of the income scale where the need is greatest.

One example of these New Democratic economic policies is the cost-of-living credit which Ed Broadbent has been talking about. This measure would not be a substitute for action to curb prices, but it would be designed to help those Canadians, especially pensioners and middle and low income families, who have no way of protecting themselves against rising prices and a deteriorating standard of living. The N.D.P. cost-of-living tax credit would ensure that the largest benefits from the tax cut will be received by those in the middle and lower income ranges - the people who are most in need of real income protection at a time when prices are rising rapidly throughout Canada and real incomes are falling.

Under our plan, maximum tax cuts would equal six percent of a person's income tax exemptions. Thus, the more dependants, the larger the exemption claim, and the larger the potential tax cut.

For example, for a family of four - a couple with two children - the maximum cost-of-living tax cut will be about $358. For a married couple where one spouse claims the other as a dependant, the maximum tax cut would be approximately $298. For a single person, the maximum credit would be around $160.

Special enriched benefits would be available for pensioners, many of whom live at or below the poverty line. In addition, unlike a general tax reduction, benefits would be payable to those who don't have any taxable income.

Thus, for example, a mar-

Cabinet maker completes pulpit

"It's been very rewarding work"

Cabinet maker Derek Rolfe

Last weekend, local cabinet-maker Derek Rolfe got the chance to see the fruits of his labors, and so did members of the congregation of St. Peter's Church at Maple Lake.

The West Guilford resident has just completed a hand-made pulpit for the church, and the final product is very impressive indeed.

Its construction consists of 120 separate pieces of red oak wood, chosen because of its slight shrinkage rate and attractive tones. There is detailed scroll-work on the exterior panels of the body, and it has all been hand varnished and rubbed.

Rolfe regards the work modestly, but knows that the project he has just completed is a work of art. A job for profit, yes, but a work of art just the same.

"It's been very rewarding work," says Rolfe, who has done other work for churches before, though not locally. He charged $1,000 to build the pulpit, but as it began to take shape, Rolfe says the "feeling" changed.

"She (the pulpit) started out as a profit job, but she's out of that now thank goodness."

And looking at that pulpit with pride, he's reminded of his teacher; the old man who originally taught him the trade way back in 1942. And he smiles.

"The old boy who taught me my trade...well, he'd be happy to see me with this." The work is among the very best Rolfe has done, and it's something he says he'd enjoyed doing, but the day of pulpit-making may soon die out. "There just isn't the demand," he says sadly.

But when the official dedication of the pulpit is made sometime in the future, Derek Rolfe will watch, and he will remember that the St. Peter's pulpit is a creation that will last for a very long time.

Driver charged in aftermath of area crash

A 65-year old Gooderham man was charged with impaired driving after his car entered a ditch on highway 503 Sunday night and rolled over.

Charged is Gordon Yewman after the eastbound vehicle he was driving entered a ditch near Furnace Falls. Damage to Yewman's car is estimated at $1800 damage.

Three people escaped with minor injuries when the car in which they were riding entered a ditch on highway 121, and struck a culvert, Monday afternoon.

Charged with careless driving is Leonard Morris, 21, of Willowdale after the east-bound vehicle he was driving entered the north ditch, and struck a culvert. The car then crossed a private driveway and came to rest in the ditch. The passengers in the car, Anthony Leggate, 19, and Ingrid Smallwood, 40, both of Scarborough, were treated for minor injuries.

Damage to the car is estimated at $1,000.

A Toronto man was charged with careless driving and improper licence plates, when the car in which he was driving entered a ditch on Horseshoe Lake Road Monday afternoon.

Charged is Daniel Schilbach, 23, after the south-bound vehicle he was driving failed to negotiate a turn into Horseshoe Lake Road, entering the east ditch.

There was no damage to Schilbach's car.

LET'S LOOK AT THE TRUDEAU RECORD

INFLATION Inflation no longer exists in Canada" - Trudeau, December 1970.

"I'm confident we'll wrestle inflation to the ground" - Trudeau, May 1974.

UNEMPLOYMENT "If it's a job you want, my heart does not bleed for you" - Trudeau, March 1977

DIRECTION? "We haven't been able to make it work, the free market system...there's going to be more authority in our lives" - Trudeau, December 1975.

The wrong place

Could Haliburton County become a major centre for the production of pulp used in the paper making process? As unlikely as that may seem, the idea has surfaced a number of times in the last two months, most recently at a forestry workshop called by the Haliburton County Economic Development Commission.

Before anyone takes the idea too seriously however, it would be well to put that idea into perspective. Paper is an essential product of course, making pulp mills an essential, if unpleasant part of the industrial landscape. But having acknowledged that fact, we must also acknowledge that even if the limitations of this area as a location for a pulp mill could be overcome (which is unlikely) a pulp mill would be an inappropriate industry here. It simply would not be compatible with the quality of life we have come to expect in Haliburton County.

Mercury pollution of the English-Wabagoon river system by the Reed Pulp and Paper Company, and the devastating effect that pollution had on the people of the Grassy Narrows Indian reserve, demonstrate one of the dangers of a pulp mill. Such mills consume enormous amounts of water and historically, they have produced enormous amounts of pollution. But even if as some people claim, a modern mill produces only ten percent of the pollution generated by an older mill, would we be willing to pay the price of that pollution? Would we be willing to allow mercury to escape into our lakes and rivers? And what about the smell? Anyone who has ever had occasion to pass through Espanola can attest to the reek of a pulp mill. Would that smell be compatible with the environment of Haliburton County? The answer to these questions is obviously no.

Leaving aside the possible harm a pulp mill could do here, there are other, less subjective hurdles to be overcome. The road system here is not adequate to handle the traffic that a pulp mill would generate. There isn't enough housing for the people a mill would employ. And we may not have, or be exercising the forest management skills to protect the forests of the county from overuse and eventual destruction.

Even if those seemingly impossible obstacles could be overcome however, even if the money and the wood and the water could be found, even if the houses could be built and the people found to run a mill, it isn't likely to be built. All those cottagers and permanent residents who cherish clean air and clean water, and who hope to preserve those things for the future, will see to that.

Caring

This Saturday, hospitals across the nation will open their doors for special programs designed to mark a special occasion. May 12 has been designated Hospital Day, and while there are no specific programs planned for the two hospitals which serve Haliburton County, that doesn't mean the day should go unnoticed. For here, perhaps more than in larger places, the hospitals have a significance that makes them among the most important institutions in the county.

Haliburton County's two hospitals may not rival hospitals in larger centres for size, equipment and specialized treatment, but when it comes to the basics of hospital care, the local Red Cross hospitals live up to high standards indeed.

In the day to day course of events, few of us have occasion to consider how important the existence of those two hospitals is to the lives we lead. When all goes well, when we avoid accident and escape sickness, we may never give the hospitals, or the people who work in them, a moment's thought. But should ill health befall us, the hospitals are there, ready to render emergency treatment, with staffs capable of caring for us through a myriad of illnesses.

Hospitals are inseparable from life itself. Today, almost all the children born in this country are born in hospitals, many of them in hospitals in small communities like Haliburton and Minden. And when the time comes for death, the hospitals are there as well, ready to provide the comfort and the care that can make the end of life as graceful and as painless as medically possible.

Hospitals also have a second, and secondary significance that cannot be overlooked in small communities, as employers of highly trained and highly skilled people, and as contributors to the health of an area's economy.

Large or small, hospitals are an essential part of the standard of living we enjoy. They will continue to fulfill a vital role in the future of Haliburton County, and hundreds of other communities.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

On Thursday, May 17, 1979 (7:30 to 10:00 p.m.), the Boy Scouts of Carleton Place, Haliburton and Minden, will hold their 3rd annual "Festival of Fun", at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School.

Each year an effort will be made to involve as much local talent as is possible within an evening. This year a number of the performers will be in the festival for the first time.

Arrangements have been made for individual and group performances such as: choral, trio and solo singing; humorous acts and skits; band, guitar and mouth organ playing; and gymnastics.

Possibly due to your efforts and certainly to many others, the festival has always been a huge success. Again, with your help it can be even more superb this year. We shall sincerely appreciate, therefore, anything which members of your organization can do to promote and to attend the Scouts' annual "Festival of Fun". This festival is a special Haliburton County event in that it brings together the county's Scouting groups, talented artists and residents, in an evening of good entertainment and fun.

Since the many performers are providing their services free gratis, there will be no fixed admission charge. However, at the time of the festival, donations will be received.

This year all proceeds will go to the newly formed Haliburton County Chapter of the Ontario Association for Children with Learning Disabilities.

Thank you for whatever you can do to make the "Festival of Fun" well-known and well attended.

Yours very truly,
Festival of Fun Committee,
Dennis Baker, Gerry Feltham,
Bill O'Reilly, Norm Wallace

To the Editor:

Pierre Trudeau's record will be hard to beat: Are you aware that between 1968 - 1978 he "tripled" our gross national debt to $80 billion. In another five years it is projected to double to $160 billion, if the present government spending continues.

If we include the hidden immigrants and say our population is now 25 million, that's roughly 3 1/2 thousand dollars for every man, woman and child - frightening isn't it?

It's true, as Trudeau says, they have created a great many new jobs. What he doesn't say is that it doesn't even match the yearly newcomers to Canada...

We appear to be in a high priced depression, over a million unemployed and even the so-called "middle class" are finding it difficult to keep up.

Can Canada afford another five years of broken election promises. As for "leadership" - why not ask yourself "Where" he is leading us?

Sincerely,
Claudia Say,
RR #2, Minden

To the Editor:

Claudia Say, in her letter of May 2, sees a return of Trudeau likely to make Canada more like Cuba. After this past cold winter many would favor this idea.

However the chance for change for the better in Canada, regardless of what party is elected, is about as liable to happen as it is to have our weather become tropical.

Each of the three parties have promised us financial assistance of one kind or another yet we all know that benefits in one place are taxes somewhere else. No party has a solution for our inflation and unemployment.

My main concern in this election is the difficulty a prime minister would have if he led a government with no representation from Quebec.

Editor's Notebook

It struck me, as I was reading through the press releases that came in the mail this week from the three political candidates in the riding, that local voters are being cheated. Why? Because the candidates are simply not working hard enough to make the people of this area aware of the issues.

Maybe all three parties think the outcome of the election in this riding is a foregone conclusion, or maybe they really don't have much interest in the northern part of the riding, and instead are concentrating their efforts in the south, where the majority of the more than 50,000 voters in this riding reside. Whatever the reasons, the result is an uninformed electorate.

Can you honestly say, for example, that you know what David Logan stands for? You know that he is a Liberal of course, and that a vote for him is therefore a vote for Pierre Trudeau, even though Logan has conspicuously left the leader's name out of his speeches and press releases, but do you know much else on which to base a vote? And what do you know about Bill Scott? You probably know that he has been in parliament for 14 years, but can you honestly say that you know what he believes? And what about his record? What has he accomplished for the riding in that time? It is a question that should be asked of any incumbent, no matter what party he or she represents. And how much time has Scott spent in the House? Is he there all the time, most of the time, or seldom? Is he a caucus spokesman? (There were more than 60 Conservative caucus spokesmen at dissolution). The answer is no, incidentally. And what do Scott and his leader Joe Clark think they can do for the

In a conversation with Bob Stinson, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce he informed me that five "Let's Treat Visitors Royally" training programs have been arranged, thanks to the Ministry of Industry and Tourism. The dates and places for the seminars are as follows: May 17 - Wagon Wheel Motel, Minden; June 5 - Orange Hall, Haliburton; June 18 - Wig-A-Mog Inn, Haliburton; June 20 - Harcourt Community Hall; June 21 - Mr. Fogg's, Carnarvon. These seminars are exceptionally valuable to anyone meeting the public, both employees and employers. It is my opinion that these seminars are a great idea and we hope they will produce some results. If we are to give this "We Treat You Royally" treatment to everyone that visits the Highlands of Haliburton we can't just leave it up to the employers and the employees. We are all in this game together and it is up to each and every individual who resides in the Highlands to make sure that they go out of their way to welcome our visitors, to make them feel at home, give them good friendly service and also we must all go out of our way to give them directions if needed and help them out in anyway we can. I think that we are only fooling ourselves if we think that we have been doing a good job in this area and the real truth is that we haven't been. People don't have to come to the Highlands of Haliburton because the tourist business like any other business is becoming very highly competitive. It's up to us to straighten up our act and do everything in our power to make visitors want to come back again.

Captain Betty Barnum will be the guest speaker at the May meeting of Haliburton United Church Women which will be held in the church on Monday, May 14 at 8:00 p.m. Captain Barnum will be showing pictures and speaking of her work at a clinic in Malaysia and at the children's home in Singapore. All ladies are most welcome to attend an evening of fellowship and song. The offering for the evening will go to the children's home in Singapore where Captain Betty Barnum is now serving.

Blake Emmons, star of the television program "The Funny Farm" will be bringing his band to Haliburton for a stage show and dance on May 19. This big evening is being sponsored by the Haliburton Kinsmen and Kinettes. Blake is a brother of Mrs. Evelyn Brooks of Haliburton. For tickets phone Dick McLean at 457-1128.

Last Wednesday morning when I arrived at work I couldn't understand what was going on when I heard one of our female employees let a scream out of her. Shortly after this I soon found out what was going on. Joe Banks, a staff writer here at the Echo, walked into my office with a yellow envelope and asked me if I had ever seen a Brazilian Beetle and I replied that I hadn't. He told me to open the envelope and look inside. I fell for it hook, line and sinker and when I opened the envelope it popped this gadget that nearly hit me in the face. The Brazilian Beetle turned out to be a button attached to an elastic. I have to admit that it did startle me for a moment and I told Joe to take that Brazilian Beetle and send it back to Brazil.

The Federal election campaign is in full swing with each major party having a candidate in our riding of Victoria-Haliburton. We must ask ourselves what is the issue as far as we are concerned here in Haliburton County. Is it national unity, Medicare, inflation? In my opinion, it's none of these, the real issue in this campaign as far as we are concerned is that state of the economy locally. The voters here are making it quite clear that the issue is small, clean industry that we must have if we are to all have a better standard of living and a better all year round economy. I think that it is up to all of us who will have a vote here in this county to ask the three candidates who are running in this election where they stand on this matter and what they hope to do about it.

There is a lot of things in this life that we take for granted and one of them is always knowing that your wallet is in your back pocket. What a shock it is when you reach for said wallet and find that it has disappeared from your pocket. This is just what happened to me last week when I lost mine. What a feeling it is to realize that although there was no money in the wallet all my credit cards were gone and that possibly someone was using them. It's a feeling that's hard to explain until it happens to you. What a task it was phoning the O.P.P. all the credit card companies and all of the important papers gone. One never realizes what a problem this can be until it happens to you. I first realized that I had lost it after coming out of the Molou Theatre following viewing a movie. I checked the theatre with a flashlight but the wallet was nowhere in sight. I spent two days of sheer panic wondering if the credit cards had fallen into bad hands. On Monday afternoon as a last ditch stand I met Grace Sipe, an employee of the Molou, and told her my problem. She said that she would open up the theatre and we would take a final look. I told her that I thought it was all in vain, that I had checked it out before. She said not to give up hope that it might have got caught in one of the seats. Grace was right. She located the wallet in a place I never thought of checking. To know that the wallet was back with everything intact was a great relief. Thanks a million Grace, for your trouble.

Halfback. The word's in all record stores and movie houses and will be for the next six months. Sly promotion for a flash rock group or a coming movie thriller? Neither. It's the code name for the Ontario government's first push to increase sales of Canadian recordings and to lure larger audiences to Canadian movies. Here's how the Halfback game is played. Each losing Wintario ticket may be redeemed for 50 cents off, to a maximum of four ($2) allowed per record or movie house admission. That means with four losing tickets, a movie patron would pay only $1.50 for a movie or $5.95 for a record. Reduced prices are in effect for children and seniors, only up to half the price will be discounted. If a child's or senior's ticket cost $1, only one lottery ticket may be used.

From the Chamber

by Bob Stinson

Chambers of Commerce are now asking this question of candidates in this Federal election and suggesting that constituents ask this question also.

In 1973 the Federal MPs (all parties) voted indexed pensions for themselves and Federal Civil Servants. This legislation was made retroactive to 1970. Their pensions are pegged to the consumer price index. This means that as the consumer price index increases the MPs and Federal Civil Servants' pensions increase.

Self employed individuals and most private companies simply cannot afford fully indexed pensions at the present rate of inflation. A pension designed to pay $100. per month that is not indexed 20 years from now will still pay $100. per month. If a pension that is designed to pay $100. per month is indexed and we do have inflation at 5 percent per year over the next 20 years that pension would pay $252. per month in 20 years time. If inflation ran at an average of 7 percent per month that pension would pay $361. per month while your pension would still pay only $100. per month.

Indexed pensions mean that the MPs and Federal Civil Servants will benefit from inflation on a relative basis. The Chamber believes that the huge government deficits are a primary cause of inflation. Therefore the people who are responsible for the deficit will benefit from the inflation that these deficits cause. We as a Chamber of Commerce must oppose the heavy burden this pension plan for MPs and Federal Civil Servants places on taxpayers of the present and particularly the future.

The government responded to criticism of its indexed pensions by appointing the actuarial firm of Tomenson, Alexander Ltd. to study the plan. Under moderate assumptions regarding inflation the study indicated an "unfunded" liability of 5.9 billion dollars already. The president of the actuarial firm that did the study called the government reaction a "sham" as reported in the March 18, 1978 Financial Post.

Indexed pensions must be repealed as they create, at the taxpayers expense, a privileged group (who receive indexed pensions) in Canada. The Chamber invites all candidates to comment on their stand on indexed pensions and urges all constituents to ask the same question.

What's New

Jim Crocker of Tamarack T.V. in Gooderham dropped in to let us know last week that he is no longer operating his T.V. business, and is now a representative of Equitable Life Insurance. He is carrying on his membership in the Chamber in that capacity and we certainly wish him much success in this new venture. Folks in the Gooderham area will certainly be pleased to know that they have a life insurance agent so close at hand.

The many merchants throughout the county who have had Don Blakey calling on them on behalf of Schneider's Meats for many years were certainly sorry to see him leave their employ. Schneider's loss is Carnarvon's gain however since Don and Elaine have now entered the retail business with Carnarvon Country Market right at the corner of Hwy. 35 and 530. Their motto of "We cut quality meats" is bound to be true since Don was a butcher long before he was a wholesale salesman. We wish them much success and hope you will join with us in visiting them on their opening day on May 17 and take part in some free coffee and donuts.

A little further north on Hwy. 35 Ruby's Cottages have been a familiar sight for many years nestled alongside of Boshkung Lake. Robert and Marion Burns are new owners there this summer and we heartily welcome them as new members to the Chamber of Commerce and to our community. We urge you as neighbours, to drop in and see them and make them feel welcome.

Festival of Fun

Some years back the Carnarvon, Haliburton and Minden Scout groups got together to present the Festival of Fun in order to raise fund for the Scouts and Cubs to attend a Jamboree. It was so successful that the idea has been carried on and funds are now donated to some local worthwhile cause. This year the donations received will be handed over to the County Association of Children with Learning Disabilities. The big night takes place on May 17 at 7:30 p.m. at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. The entertainment at hand is provided by Cubs and Scouts from all three groups as well as the Haliburton Guild Choir, the St. George's Choir and a local band. There's something for everybody here and it's a tradition that we hope the Scouting groups will now carry on indefinitely. See you there.

So this is the Year of the Child. Well, you can have it. And them. Our society is breaking up fast. First, in the 60s, the teenagers took over. They got into drugs and politics and violence and dropping out and communes and health food and free love and ripping-off the government and driving their parents to drink and depression.

Then we got into Women's Liberation Movement. Raunch and intelligent women trying to upset a perfectly good system that has been working well, on the whole, for about 20,000 years. We should never have given them the vote back in '21, or whenever.

They have wrecked family life, population growth, and the economy by their ridiculous demands. They have psychologically castrated their husbands and turned the occasional kid they had into a whining brat who thinks that love and whatever else he wants are more important than a good whack on the bum.

They have sent the unemployment rate soaring by sailing into the job market in their hundreds of thousands. Just because they have high skills or a university degree, they think and say, quite openly and without shame, that they should be considered on the same level as, or even higher than, a grade 10 dropout male who can barely tie his shoelaces. Sheer arrogance.

They have wrecked the educational system by refusing to remain baby factories. This has caused rapidly falling enrolment in our schools and a lack of jobs for male teachers, whose wives are among the worst examples of tiny families and hitting the job market.

And now it's the year of the kids. There are series on child-battering in the papers, articles about one-parent children, and even child symposiums in which the little turkeys are asked to comment on how their parents should behave, what's wrong with the world, what freedoms they should have, and any other insane question a smarty, patronizing interviewer can think up.

We are smothered by stuff from the media about children: day-care centres, inner city schools (slums), special education, gifted children, obscene T-shirts for kids. We are harassed and harangued by priests who have never had a child and social workers up to their ears in stale psychiatry, and politicians who know that kids can't vote, but grab the coat-tails of any issue that receives media attention.

And what good is all this going to do the kids? Not much. They'll go right on doing what they've always done: dreaming, fighting, playing; being the happy, morose, belligerent, shy, cruel, gentle, brilliant, slow, and utterly delightful little animals they've always been. In Canada they'll be over-fed, over-spoiled and over here. In Africa they'll be over-starved, over-populated and over there. And in both places they'll be over-loved with that weird, irrational love of children that prevails throughout the world, civilized or uncivilized.

Oh, a few laws might be passed, and many resolutions approved. But the drunken mother or father who beats a child will go on doing so. The ultra-permissive parents will go on turning out monstrous teenagers. The over-protective parents will go on turning out still more monstrous teenagers.

But the great mass of kids in this Year of the Children will be much like every other generation: curious, resentful of things that they don't understand, ready to fight to death for ideals, gradually conforming and compromising to the realities of life, and going on to become monstrous parents themselves.

Now I don't speak from the seat of the old philosopher, or any such hypocritical elevation. I recently had a visit from my grandboys. I speak firsthand.

It was Easter weekend, and we're still scraping chocolate off the woodwork and picking up squashed jelly-beans and ripped rabbits' ears.

But it was a great weekend. That marvellous alchemist, Time, has wrought a great change in them. They are becoming personal friends, instead of sibling rivals.

The destruction was down about 800 per cent. True, Nicky kicked a ball into a collection of Doulton figurines, but nothing was broken. I took the ball away, and he didn't even have a tantrum.

But the TV is still working. A few doorknobs are missing, but not all of them, as on previous visits. They can eat without bibs, though Balind did get about 80 grams of relish and ketchup down his shirt when mangling a hot dog.

However, he's only two and has a grin that would disarm the devil. And he said something that so shook me that I went down in a faint, and my old lady had to pick me up. I'd plunked a peanut-butter and honey sandwich in front of him, and he said "Thank you, Grandat," as casually as though I were a waiter. I'd never heard either of them say "Please" or "Thank you" before.

They didn't sprinkle even one can of powder, mixed with toothpaste, on the hardwood floors. They didn't break a single window. They didn't taint the TV with cold cream. They took off their muddy boots when they came in, instead of marching over

Report from Queens Park

by MPP John Eakins

No doubt you will all have heard of the mysterious "M. Shultz" who wrote to Liberal MPP Eddie Sargent comparing failures of Ontario Hydro's Bruce Generating Station to those that led to the recent nuclear accident at the Three Mile Island power plant near Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. He said that "the possibility of all these events happening simultaneously in a Candu reactor are remote, but no more remote than the sequence of events at TMI."

The letter in question and seven accompanying Significant Event Reports were released by my leader, Stuart Smith. Turning the documents over to the Legislature's select committee on Hydro affairs, Stuart Smith said "These documents must speak for themselves...I think members of the committee will see that Mr. Shultz is a responsible person and the concern he expresses in his letter is a legitimate one."

Subsequently, a man identifying himself as Mr. Shultz telephoned a Toronto radio station with details of an incident over the weekend of 28/29 April in which two Ontario Hydro employees received radiation doses far in excess of the permissible level while working to free a trapped fuel bundle in a reactor at Bruce. One worker received a dose of 5.5 rems, the other received an eight-rem dose, according to Hydro officials. (Five rems is the permissible level of exposure for an entire year.)

Ontario Hydro shut down its 10-day-old operation to retrieve the trapped fuel bundle and has launched an investigation into the overexposure incident. Officials of Hydro, nuclear plant operators and health specialists will participate in the inquiry, the results of which will be made public as soon as possible. Hydro will be given an opportunity to rebut allegations that failures at Bruce seriously jeopardized safety. Representatives of all parties have agreed to meet with officials to give an opportunity for Hydro to respond to the letter from "Mr. Shultz" and the accompanying reports.

In the latest in a series of revelations by New York State health officials, it has been announced that the world's deadliest man-made poison, dioxin, has been found in Lake Ontario fish. People, especially pregnant women and children, have been warned not to eat fish from the lake, although officials maintained the discovery poses no threat to Metro's water. An environment ministry official has stated that the poison could not be in the lake water because it gets into the fish through the food chain. "It's not in the water," he said. "It's in something the fish eats."

Answering a question from Liberal leader Stuart Smith about the seriousness of the problem, the minister compared the concentrations of dioxin to "one shot of vermouth in a 28 million ton of martini". Dr. Smith was not reassured by the minister's response, and angrily commented, "He is saying everything is fine and they don't even test for dioxin. He shouldn't say everything is fine until the water and fish have been tested."

people of this riding, and for the people of Canada, if they are elected? One could ask the same question of the NDP candidate, Patrick Daniel, with the same dismal results. The fact is that the voters of Haliburton County will have a difficult time making an informed choice in the upcoming election for the simple reason that the candidates are not giving the voters a chance to ask pointed and pertinent questions.

To give all of us a chance to see and hear the candidates under fire, there should be a public debate among all three candidates in a place large enough to accommodate several hundred voters. Both the Liberal and NDP candidate have said publicly that they would welcome such a public forum. Campaign organizers for Bill Scott have sidestepped suggestions for such a debate, perhaps sensing that as the incumbent, Scott has the most to lose.

It may well be, as I have been told by more than one person, that all-candidates meetings draw small crowds. That strikes me as unimportant. What is important is to give the voters a chance to hear and see the candidates in a public debate.

Whether or not the voters turn out to hear the hopefuls is not the main issue. Voters should at least be given the chance to become informed, and to cast a vote based on some knowledge of all three candidates.

At the moment, they're not getting that chance, and I, for one, am angry about it. If you are too, why not call the campaign headquarters of the candidates and tell them so. It may not work, but at least it will prove that the voters care. As yet, the candidates have done little to show that they recognize that concern.

"Federal financial help can play a very important role in providing jobs and economic growth in this riding. I will devote my time and energy to informing you of the programs and funding available, and helping each and every part of this large riding in obtaining assistance. I will work to this common purpose with your provincial and municipal representatives to make Haliburton-Victoria-Georgina a better place to live."

I SUPPORT THE FOLLOWING PROPOSALS AND PLEDGE TO WORK TOWARDS THEM ON YOUR BEHALF:

+ To provide enthusiastic, energetic and dedicated representation to each and every individual in this large, complex and unique riding, now and into the 1980's.

+ To provide personal contact with you through the establishment of three constituency offices throughout the riding. This would provide you with information on government programs and funding available from all levels of government, federal, provincial and municipal.

+ To provide input for changes in the funding of our health care services to ensure the availability of medicare and hospital services to all Canadians.

Conditions were ideal for annual event

Students compete in HHSS field day

Hundreds of Haliburton Highlands Secondary School students took to the track last Wednesday to compete in the annual track and field day. Conditions were ideal for the day long competition, and by the time it was over, six champions had been declared in the three levels of competition and nine school records had been broken.

In the Midget girls division, Bethany Wood racked up a total of 17 points to come up with the overall championship. Runner-up was Joanne Jarrett with 16 points. In the Junior girls division, Margie Newton was the overall winner with 20 points. Runner-up was Sheila Simpson with 15 points.

Sheila Simpson set a school record of 1 minute 12 seconds on the way to victory in the 400 metre run. In the high jump, Margie Newton also set a new school record with a leap of 1.49 metres.

In the javelin throw, Bonnie Stevens also set a record with a toss of 27.91 metres.

In the Senior girls competition, Henny VanLieshout set three school records and racked up 23 points to emerge the overall winner. Runner-up for the senior title was Darlene Barnhart.

VanLieshout set a record of 3:06.1 in the 800 metre race, a record of 6:22.3 in the 1500 metre run, and a record of 14:32.4 in the 3000 metre race.

In Midget boys competition, Terry Crowe was the overall champion with a total of 25 points. Runner-up was Mike Hatkoski with 18 points.

Records in the Midget boys division were set by Shaughen Wilson, who covered 10.98 metres in the triple jump, and by Mike Hatkoski, who tossed the javelin 48.55 metres.

In the Junior boys division, Butch Manary was the overall champion with a total of 18 points. Runner-up with 12 points, was Mike Bird.

No records were broken in the Junior boys division, but Phil Smith came close in the high jump, equalling the record of 1.67 metres.

In the Senior boys division, overall winner was Andy Anderson, who scored a total of 18 points in the various events. Coming in second in the overall competition was Alan Cooper, with 16 points.

Cooper was the only one to set a record in the Senior division. His 10:16.8 was good enough for first place in the 3000 metre race.

Following are the complete results of the meet:

'Fun' baseball may be starting soon

For those men wondering about a 'fun league' for baseball in Haliburton this summer, Bob Johnson and Roger Bain may have the answer.

The two men are currently organizing an inter-village league in Haliburton, and have so far managed to accumulate 30 names of people who are interested in playing.

Their next step is to get an okay from the village for a playing night.

"Right now," said Johnson, "we're trying to get enough names to see if there is enough interest."

The league will exist only in the village itself but next year, said Johnson, it might develop into more than that.

Teams from Carnarvon, West Guilford, Minden and others, could be competing just for the "fun of it".

Norm Greenfield and Dick McLean will be assisting the two men in their efforts.

Johnson said there will be no competition for players between the men's tri-county league and the local league. The local league is hoping to get a Wednesday night time slot, which will not conflict with tri-county games.

"The most a player would miss," said Johnson, "would be two games" if he was also playing in tri-county.

They come for the challenge and defy whitewater

by Joe Banks

When the last of the ice breaks up and the swollen Horseshoe River foams white with force, they come like gladiators. They are here to challenge.

The river is the challenge, and the gladiators, suited in their brightly coloured helmets and layer upon layer of waterproof clothing, are kayakers and canoeists.

Mark Brown and Grant McCaffrey are two men who have been coming to the river near Minden the past three seasons for the Ontario Canoe and Kayak team time trials which were held last weekend. Together, they comprise a C-2 team, a two-man canoe team, and together, they ride the roaring river each year at this time to beat the clock down a course that almost seems impossible to negotiate. With obstacles strung across the river, the single and double-man teams have to maneuver their boats around and between them, sometimes going through sideways or backwards, straining all the way in a very fast current.

"It's been part of our lifestyle for the past six or seven years," McCaffrey, 23, says. His partner, Brown, who is 22, rides the bow position in the canoe. The men are in their fourth season together and are both members of the Canadian National Whitewater Canoeing team. Now they're training for the world championships soon to be held in Jonquiere, Quebec. They travel to meet nearly every weekend around the province as do scores of other competitors. In fact, the men agree, the sport has become a small sub-culture. But, almost modestly, they say they both feel the sport is not a dangerous one, despite outward appearances.

"It's not dangerous," says Brown. "It's exciting, it's challenging, but it's definitely not dangerous." The sport does require, however, much skill. Anybody can paddle around a lake in a canoe, but in white water canoeing and kayaking, the trick is to fit into a thin hollow piece of fiberglass with only your balance keeping you upright. There are strict rules and regulations as to the type and weight of the boat, and each competitor is required to wear certain amounts of protective clothing. But McCaffrey says "no one really gets hurt."

"It's a lot of fun, and if it wasn't, I wouldn't be doing it."

It isn't a sport that is confined to one simple technique, and every competitor just does "what they feel is right."

Neither is it a sport that is confined to any particular age group, but the paddlers say they believe "about 30 is when the wind (stamina) and the experience come together."

Despite the challenges and excitement of kayaking and canoeing, the sport will not be an event at the 1980 Summer Olympics in Moscow, much to the dismay of Brown and McCaffrey.

"The Russians aren't good at it," says Brown, "and the host city has the option to include any international sport or not." But the men aren't completely disheartened; the Americans are including the sport when they host the 1984 games, says Brown, "because they're good at it."

To a person interested in "getting into" the sport, the men suggest joining a club in Peterborough or one of the other cities in Ontario which may have a group. After this, an experienced paddler on the club will show you safety techniques involving coming out of a roll, or avoiding obstacles. The fine skills of the sport are then taught, and tuned as the paddler attends, more meets, and becomes more experienced.

"But the biggest problem is getting into it," says McCaffrey. "We were fortunate since our school (University of Toronto) had a pool."

The sport, too, can become costly, but surprisingly less than others of international status. Most competitors prefer to build their own boats from fiberglass, which can cost "a couple of hundred dollars," far less than what an Olympic skier would pay for his equipment.

But when Brown and McCaffrey descend into a rushing river, equipment is the last thing on their minds.

Because that, they say, is the time when boat and men become one.

Extendicare News

by Dr. W. O. Anderson

Monday, April 30, our first gorgeous red tulip greeted us full, something a little different and soon we should have a nice display of tulips and daffodils. There is no sign of the sweet peas put in a week ago, and with the weather we are having and the earliness they may not be a big success. We have been active these few days giving the seedlings bigger pots, the pots that take them to planting out. There are 30 snapdragons the only variety we have been conveniently able to count, but they are a very nice member of a flower display.

It is gratifying to learn the amount of interest generated toward the use of debris wood from forestry operations, as fuel to produce steam generated electric power. Such activity would groom the forests and thus reduce the fire hazard. Solar power too is coming into use when people learn that enough solar heat can be salvaged from each home to provide all the power it needs for a year. Since hydro claims that all the profitable water power sites in Southern Ontario are efficiently developed, any that are left should be made available to private developers, keeping in mind possible untoward scenic effects caused by dams. Wind power tends to be rather unwieldy to produce a given amount of power, and besides a forest of windmills in a community would be rather interesting but not very scenic. Very little news arises from the Fundy tidal power development although it seems millions have been spent in one survey after another. That apparent perpetual generation of heat in the Earth's core is man's for the tapping and some nations are already enjoying it, chief of which is Iceland existing near the Arctic circle in a veritable continuing summer, for electric generation and everything that goes with it. Hot springs are in evidence in many locations all around the globe, many of which lend themselves to home hot water heating. With all of that there is still not the beginning of enough energy to satisfy Earth's needs.

Cecil Kellett, one of our gang who for the past six months has been gravely ill, was moved to Lindsay hospital. We all wish him the best but we fear that is not very much.

Another addition to our gang, Harold McKelvey of Minden made our acquaintance on Wednesday, and soon will know the ropes. We will give him what help we can.

Thursday we chanced the 75 km paved road to Bancroft on learning that "The Canadian Brass" was giving a concert in the auditorium of The North Hastings High School for the public. Knowing this splendid group of five musicians, we would have walked that distance, time permitting, to hear them.

the Indian rug.
And when I said, "Don't wreck my typewriter," or something of the sort, they didn't blurt, "...you," they said, "OK, Grandat," or something of the sort.

Maybe this Year of the Children has something going for it, a whole lot more than Sixties Suls or Women's Lib nerve-wracking. But when is the Year of the Man? I hope I'm around long enough to enjoy it.

Coming on stage they looked ordinary, but when they came to play they were superb, even justifying the walk if needed. Each is a genius and slave to his instrument - two trumpets, a tuba, a trombone and a French horn, and for instance when they played the Flight of the Bumblebee, can make that creature as big and as menacing as they wish. Or playing a fugue, if our eyes dropped shut, these instruments are chasing each other about the auditorium in a most delightful harmony, finally joining again on the stage. The harmony is continually astounding right down to the last demisemiquaver. Only too soon this delight came to an end in a standing ovation, and reminded us of the promise of the Muskoka, Haliburton and Hastings delights to come. Neither did we walk back.

We learn on Saturday that the Inco strikers of Sudbury have settled for another hefty dose of inflation, otherwise they would still be unemployed. It is strange how they seem to yearn to reach a much higher income tax bracket, to become opulent so they can squander energy, thus making nuclear power mandatory or inciting riots like occurred at the same time in Washington, D.C. Civilization has sure taken on some foolish turns.

October 1978 Prime Minister Trudeau loaned Algeria $1.2 billion, after which Canada's economy was so shaky he had to borrow $1.2 billion to bolster our currency. What leadership! This was done by ministerial decree, without the sanction of cabinet, let alone parliament, a dictator's caper that should have R.C.M.P. scrutiny, but Trudeau is above the law in these matters. What a future we have if he is left to dictate, especially a Quebec separation.

The weather we have been having lately has delayed somewhat, our gardening plans. We cannot get out garden prepared because no one can work in the rain. We thought we might set out some early cucumbers and other vines preparing to cover them at a threat of frost.

Sunday, a day we should be resting, we boarded a bus driven by Mrs. Pat Burk intent on seeing an exhibition of eight Lipazzan stallions and a trick Appaloosa. This was a quite magnificent display, and at times very amusing. After this was over all too soon, we were sat down to a meal of hamburgers, all planned ahead and served to us on the bus, fancy that! Some of the guests on this safari turned volunteers to help give us a better time: Mervin and Ruby Gilbert, Percy and Carrie Drysdale, Mrs. Mildred Hill and Jack Cornish. We nearly forgot to mention the pair of donkeys that just about stole the show. Referring back to our helpers, it is hard to adequately thank them.

(1) What is the answer?
 $4 + 3 + 2 + 10 + 3 - 7 - 2 - 12 + 1 - 2 = ?$

(2) Make your own jig-saw puzzle! This is very easy and is a nice surprise to mail to a friend. You can make your own picture or use one from a magazine.

Equipment:
cardboard
pencil
crayons, paint or magazine picture scissors
large envelope

Step:
1. Draw your picture on the cardboard and colour it or glue picture to cardboard.
2. Draw lines into puzzle shapes.
3. Cut along the lines.
4. Store your puzzle in the envelope.

You can have fun by writing a letter to a friend then cutting it into a puzzle. A real mystery letter!

The regular monthly meeting of Br. 129 was held in the hall on Thursday, May 3, 1979 with President Mel Robertson presiding.

As this was election night there was a large turnout of members. Comrade Sylvia Sisson read the minutes of the last general and executive meetings and these were passed and the business arising was dealt with in general business. Treasurer-manager Doug Armstrong gave a report on the financial situation pertaining to the building fund and was pleased to report that Wintario funding had been received and that the branch was therefore in a stable condition. The Sick and Visiting chairman reported some members now home from hospital but comrade Hank James is hospitalized locally.

The Public Relations Officer gave a report on the District "F" convention held April 21 - 22, 1979 at Br. 133 Cobourg, Ont. There was representation from almost all the branches in the district and the guest speaker Sunday afternoon was comrade Rick Collins, Provincial President. Comrade Collins conducted the election of officers later in the day and comrade Merrill Dunn, of Cannington was re-elected to the office of District Commander. For the office of Deputy District Commander five comrades stood. The new Deputy District Commander is comrade Jack Rashotte, Br. 99, Belleville, Ontario. Comrade Jack had for many years been the District Poppy Chairman. After the elections the ceremony of Installation of Officers was held and newly elected Zone Commanders and Deputy Zone Commanders were also installed.

The election of officers at Br. 129 was conducted by the newly elected Deputy Zone Commander Mel Robertson and the following is the slate of officers for the forthcoming year: Immediate Past President, Mel Robertson; President, A. S. Cooper; 1st Vice President Jack McDonagh; 2nd Vice President, Bruce McKay; Sgt. at Arms, Ed Fajar; Exec. council, N. Healey, H. Good, C. Yatemman, D. MacLean, M. Schell, G. Kennedy, M. Leighton and W. Foote. Service Officer, L. Whittaker; P.R.O., Marjorie Robertson.

At the conclusion of the meeting a 50-50 draw was held. The winner is John Purc of Minden. John will be presented with a $1,000 bill within the next few days. On Thursday June 7, the branch and the Ladies Auxiliary will hold a joint installation ceremony with Zone Commander Doug Worrall and LA Zone Commander Phyllis Monte-deposing their colours at the front of the hall. Comrade Irene Gardiner, President, welcomed the delegates to Kinnmount and then proceeded to introduce the platform guests. These were comrade Allin Brown, Pres. Br. 144, Deputy Zone Commander Mel Robertson, M.P. Bill Scott, Reeve Maurice Watson of Somerville Twp., Reeve Carl Brickman of Galway-Cavendish Twp., and comrade Carroll, Zone Cl., Goderich, Ontario. Each spoke briefly to the rally and were then escorted from the dias by Sgt.-at-Arms J. Montemiglio. As the business session got underway the minutes of the last rally were read by comrade E. Day of Haliburton. The branches were then called upon to give their financial reports and a report of their year's activities. All branches reported having had excellent co-operation from all members and monies were raised through catering to weddings and banquets, service club dinners, socials and dances and in some cases bingos. Altogether the branches raised $113,911.75. The total contributed to the Bursary Fund was $3,965.00. In the year 1978 the total amount contributed to the Bursary Fund was $119,489.81 by the Auxiliaries in Ontario Provincial Command.

At this time a short recess was called by comrade Phyllis and some of the prizes were distributed through a lucky number draw. After the recess comrade Phyllis introduced the guest speaker, comrade Evelyn Carroll. Comrade Evelyn brought greetings from President Mary DesJardine and the members of the executive Ontario Provincial Command. Her address touched many facets of Legion, reminding us of our obligations as members.

She told us that our numbers across the province are increasing and our total public image is excellent. She offered congratulations on a good year passed and hoped that 1979 would be even better. At the present time there are 29,399 members in the Auxiliaries across Ontario and there are 1006 life members.

Monday morning we started the week off with a kick or two at fun and fitness. The residents enjoyed an hour of exercising and fun. In the afternoon, the ladies worked on several projects at crafts, after which tea and cookies were served.

Monday evening we had two movies at 6 o'clock. The first one was called "Prehistoric Fish". It showed the prehistoric characteristics of several of our fish. For instance the fins are the full length of the back and the mouth and tail fins are very odd.

The second movie entitled "Alaska Diary" told the story of a cruise on the Princess Patricia, a large ship owned by C.P.R. The scenery was just beautiful of the ice glaciers in their aqua blue colour.

On Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock chapel service was taken by Rev. John Smith of the Baptist Church in Haliburton.

We had an interesting afternoon when we had a very special guest, Mrs. Binks from Bracebridge came and showed some beautiful slides of flowers and we all joined in and sang hymns during the show.

Because this is International Year of the Child, Mrs. Binks also showed us slides of the children of Haiti, and told us that 95 percent of them have T.V. She also explained about the wonderful work that is being done at Grace hospital. The staff is voluntary and the hospital is run entirely on donated funds.

We thoroughly enjoyed her visit and would like to have her back again to share with us her very interesting life.

Wednesday was a regular day starting with fun and fitness in the morning, and crafts for the ladies in the afternoon. Also, the men enjoyed a game of carpet bowling in the auditorium.

Thursday's afternoon tea party was served by the ladies of Gelert. These girls sure brought an abundance of delicious sandwiches, bars and cookies, also they joined in on a little singing before they left.

Friday afternoon we once again enjoyed an hour of singing with Grace Cobourn and Lucille Clark on the piano. That is all the news for now; more next time.

Gardeners, here's a few ideas for you. Eliminate seeds sticking to your fingers or coming out of the package in huge dumps. Place very small seeds in a plastic medicine tube with a punctured hole in the lid off to one side for easy distribution. If all seeds are not used, place adhesive tape over the opening, label and store. Larger seeds can be placed in plastic margarine containers or glass bottle with a suitable hole size.

You can make your own insecticide for the garden by chopping onions and garlic, covering with water in a jar. Allow the mixture to strengthen for a week and then spray on the plants. Pump-type hair spray or window cleaner bottles can be reused to spray your potion.

When your tomato plant gets tall and begins to bend you can cut ties from old pantyhose to attach to the stake. The material is soft enough to avoid damaging tender shoots. Pantyhose are good for training a young bent tree. Fasten to the desired length, cutting off the excess. Over a long period of time, the hose may stretch. This can be tightened like a tourniquet by twisting around a small stick then tucking it into the folds.

Would you like to give a wheelchair or a kidney machine to a person in need of one? Mrs. Audrey Vick of Gelert tells us how.

This idea has been mentioned in the past in other columns but cannot be repeated too often. Computed labels are on everything that you buy. They are the line and numbers patches on can labels, boxes, clothing, etc. which are eventually to be used by the stores as an inventory control and pricing system.

Simply cut them off and save them in an envelope. Encourage your neighbours to do the same. These can be deposited in Archie Stouffer School in Minden for the bus driver, Mrs. Francis Crawford, to pick up and re-direct through the proper channels.

In no time at all, your efforts will combine with others to buy the needed equipment for kidney patients.

Bread tabs can also be saved and left at the same drop off for wheelchair purchases.

Instead of throwing these disposables in the garbage, put them in a handy storage place and in little time you will be helping someone.

I don't know how the rest of you feel, but it is getting so that one hates to turn on the T.V. or radio. I sure will be glad when the 23rd of May arrives and all the mud slinging is over. When one sees the politicians pounding their desks in parliament, one is reminded of small boys showing their displeasure.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hurta have been enjoying a visit with their daughter and son-in-law at Halifax, N.S.

The new store "Jeans & Stuff" near the library will be open weekends until the middle of June.

David and Jane Graham of Oakwood spent the weekend with Mrs. J. Daniels.

Lochlin ladies are having a rummage sale and bake sale at the Lochlin Community Centre on May 19, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Donations gratefully accepted.

Don't throw out those plastic pill bottles; after soaking outside wrapper off, coat the sticky stuff well with vegetable oil and then let it soak for 1 hour. After that time the bottle can be cleaned real well.

Dorothy and Lori McCallum, Marjory Dawkins, all of Lindsay, also Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Dawkins and Beverly of Rexdale visited with Mrs. Ben Harrison on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Graham are enjoying a holiday in the British Isles.

Stephanie Wells, Barb Ballantyne, Lois Davies and Shirley Howe enjoyed themselves last weekend at the calorie counters convention in Toronto. All received awards for weight lost during past year; and Lois, Barb and Shirley were stars the convention. Stars of what? They told me but as it is all Greek to me, you will have to find out from them.

Mrs. Arnold Coulter has gone to spend several weeks with the Ray Rivers at Downsview.

Shirley Daniels and Corinne Wrightman hosted a bay

inne Wrightman hosted a baby shower at the Wrightman home last Sunday afternoon for Jan Heffer.

It's a house if it stays in order, with never a grain of dust; but it's a home if the children play there, no matter how often it's mused.

Don't forget the skating club flea market on Saturday, May 19. Donations of any items you can spare will be appreciated. Call 286-2425 if you have anything.

Got stung last year by putting the garden in too soon, so I am holding back a bit now, but I am getting itchy fingers, aren't you?

The United Church Women Executive met at the church hall on Wednesday evening May 2, to attend to a number of items of business in preparation for the June 4 meeting, at which Mrs. Pierce from Haliburton will be the guest speaker.

The Minden & District Horticultural Executive met April 16 and drew up a number of resolutions to be presented at the regular meeting on May 1. The regular meeting opened with the president welcoming all present and asking them to please sign the book when it was passed around.

A letter from Stanhope Township was read, thanking the society for the work done on the flower bed at the municipal office last year, and a donation was enclosed to help with this year's flower bed.

The drive for members is still on with membership convener Sue Sisson asking the members to help get as many members as possible. Remember the more we have the bigger the grant will be to work with.

The resolutions were read from the executive meeting, with those present in agreement to them.

The flower beds on the north side of the river are being prepared for the summer.

The president announced that as the speaker, Mrs. Campbell from the Garden Centre really needed no introduction, she would ask her to tell us about perennials, annuals, and the starting of gardens. After speaking about the soil preparation for lawns or gardens, Mrs. Campbell went on to speak of flower beds mentioning that annuals must be kept separate from perennials.

Mr. Tipton thanked Mrs. Campbell for her informative talk and presented her with a gift.

The next meeting will be held on June 5 with Dr. Rahmel of Canadian Rose Society as guest speaker.

As I was away for the April meeting of the U.C.W. these minutes were late.

The President, Mrs. Miller opened the business meeting with 34 members and two visitors present. Mrs. Miller thanked the ladies for helping and attending the World Day of Prayer, March 2; at which there was a record attendance of 80. Elva Deacon gave a report on the Presbyterian meeting in Queen St. Church, Lindsay. The theme was "The Year of the Child". The program consisted of a selection of songs by pupils of Leslie Frost school and a moderator panel discussed children's problems and answered questions.

The Lydia group presented an Easter devotion including a duet by Grace Coburn and Shirley Collis. "All on an April evening".

Mrs. Miller welcomed the Lochlin ladies and Mrs. Bea Berry introduced Mr. Lloyd Johnson who showed slides of his trip to the Holy Land. He gave an interesting and informative talk on the ancient and modern sights in that part of the world. This was particularly appropriate as an introduction to Holy Week.

Grace Coburn thanked Mr. Johnson and following the Benediction, everyone enjoyed a social time.

Adios and take care now.

OPP praising man who aided police in cottage investigation

Minden OPP this week are praising a Minden man who noticed damage to a cottage on Beer Lake and who aided an OPP constable in an investigation that led to the arrest of three juveniles.

Ernest Stromburg was fishing on Beer Lake at about noon Saturday when he noticed damage to a cottage owned by Peter Atman of Lindsay. He reported it to Minden OPP, and awaited the arrival of P.C. Al Bibby, who was assigned to investigate the matter.

Together, Bibby and Stromburg checked cottages in the Beer Lake area and found that two other cottages, owned by Albert Garden of Lindsay and Ronald Pillsworth of Thornhill, had also been forcibly entered.

Police say Stromburg continued to aid constable Bibby throughout the investigation, which led to the arrest of three juveniles who were missing persons from the York Region.

The Atman cottage suffered $50 damage to a window. Missing were a knife, a sweater, and two bags of groceries. A screen on the Garden cottage suffered $20 damage, but nothing was stolen. Damage to the Pillsworth cottage was estimated at $20 to a window, and missing from the cottage were sleeping bags, flashlights and clothing valued at $200.

Two juvenile females were

U.C.W. Mrs. Florence Sherman and Mrs. Lorene Dettman, the short play by Mrs. Orlee Wells and Mrs. Mearl Hopkins of Baddow United Church and the delicious lunch served by Knox U.C.W. In the afternoon Mr. E. Aikens, a social worker of Kawartha-Haliburton Children's Aid Society told of some of his experiences during his 20 years of working with parents and children who are involved with the Children's Aid Society in the Counties of Victoria and Haliburton. A question and answer period followed his informative talk which gave some insight into children's problems because of broken homes, single parents, alcoholism, unemployment, etc. Our society should be careful that we have a concerned Children's Aid Society that is trying to help these young people. Elected chairman for Region 4, 1980, was Mrs. Joyce Brown of Kinmount, vice-chairman Mrs. Mearl Hopkins and secretary Mrs. Edith Watson of Baddow.

On Saturday, June 23, Norland Horticultural Society will have a flower show and the public are invited to exhibit plants and flower arrangements in Norland community hall on this day. A complete list of the various classes will appear in this column at a later date. But in the meantime you can make plans to prune and prepare your plants and floral bouquets for this upcoming event.

The Brownie and Guide mother and daughter banquet is planned for Monday evening, May 14 in Norland community hall. This is always an especially pleasant and exciting time for these young ladies to entertain their parents.

Next time that you pass Moore Lake Marine on highway 35, North of Norland, drop in and say hello to Tom and Carol Thompson and John and Shirley Harrison who are the new owners as of May 2. Formerly from Toronto to the Thompsons and Harrison and their teenage children are now living at Clear Lake near Miner's Bay. We wish them well in their new venture and hope that they enjoy living and working in the area.

Firemen's hockey pool winner on Saturday, April 28 was Sharon Kay.

Gloria Cameron (Mrs. Angus) is busy preparing for the opening of her Cameron Country Crafts Shop on May 19. It will be situated in her home on Highway 503 about one half mile east of Norland. The opening weekend (May 19, 20, 21) hours will be from 10:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. but at other times the shop will be open Tuesday to Saturday from 11:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. There will be hand-woven placemats, scarves, bags, fancy pillows, afghans, wall hangings, macrame plant hangers etc. for sale. For further information call 454-8431.

Circle the date Thursday, May 31 and plan to attend a special meeting in Norland United Church hall at 8:00 p.m. Mr. Robert Nickol, chief public health inspector of Haliburton Kawartha Pine Ridge District Health Unit in Lindsay will show pictures and explain the health requirements needed to cater for meals for the public. This was recently an issue in the newspapers and the government is expected soon to pass legislation prohibiting public catering unless certain specific health standards are met.

I hope that it's not too late to welcome back some of our winter away visitors who have now returned to the Norland area. The Dredges, Brukers and Ray Halls are all back from Florida and the Ed Hollands from Mexico.

The committee of the Victoria County Spring Festival of the Arts was just sent a brochure showing the activities planned, to every household in the county. I hope that when you receive your copy, you will keep it handy for quick reference and will attend the various programs that interest you. A lot of time and trouble has gone into the preparation of this festival and your support is needed to make it a success. Please note that I mistakenly quoted the wrong price for the dance, featuring the "Maple Sugar" group in Cobocok community hall on Saturday, May 26. The price is $8.00 per couple.

Susan England, daughter of Joe and Grace England will be a June bride on Saturday the 16th when she will marry Paul Lightfoot of Beaverton in the Anglican Church, Cobocok at 4:00 p.m. Donna Liscombe invited many friends and relations to a bridal shower for Susan on Sunday May 6 in the Norland community hall.

The Victoria County Board of Health was very pleased when 130 people came to the polio and tetanus immunization clinic in Fenelon Falls on Wednesday, May 2.

Kinmount Klippings

by Fran Crawford

As Fran is on holiday this week, we told her we would provide a few items for her column.

On Sunday, April 29, the Kinmount Legion Branch 441 held its annual elections, and the new slate reads as follows: President, Alan Brown; Vice President, Bill Lillie; 2nd Vice President, Helen Byne; Sgt.-at-Arms, Charles Cross. Executive Committee is Bert Young, Jim Hockley, Jim Nightingale, Earl Hartin, Norman Gilmore, Norman Silver and Harold Coulter. Zone officials Doug Worrall, Bill Dermody and Mel Robertson presided over the elections. It looks like a good lineup, and we feel sure that they will all do a great job. The meeting was followed by a buffet supper, courtesy of the Ladies Auxiliary.

Last week was Education Week, and our Kinmount Public School held an "At Home" for parents and friends on the evening of May 1. Carrie Dettman, who is president of the school's Red Cross Society, was master of ceremonies. There was a play and a pantomime by grades 1, 2 and 3. The older children performed in two short plays and demonstrated their square dancing technique. Poems were recited and piano solos played. A lunch was served by the Red Cross executive, assisted by parents, Joyce Brown and Jane Dettman. Children, parents and teachers are to be congratulated for the success of this affair.

Everyone wishes to extend sympathy to Michael McBride, whose mother died tragically in a fire at Cardiff last week. Michael is the clerk of Somerville Township. Mr. and Mrs. James McBride had just returned to Cardiff from a winter in Florida.

We know that Fran has told you that the Kinmount Festival group is producing "Our Town", a play of Thornton Wilder on May 25 and 26, in the Kinmount community hall at 8 p.m. Tickets at two dollars may be purchased in Kinmount at Dettman's Dry Goods, the 5 - $1.00 store, Kinvale Inn and from Michael McBride in the Township of Somerville office.

We hope that Fran will be back with you next week - Sam and Margaret Telford.

Cobocok News

by Sheila Lake

The Lions Club held a farewell party for Paul and Mary Wooton at the community hall on Saturday evening April 28. About 35 Lions and their wives were in attendance. Paul has been the superintendent at the Balsam Lake Provincial Park since the fall of 1974. He will be Parks Co-ordinator at the Leirtrim in Ottawa area, and will begin work there on May 8. Ted Garells spoke on behalf of those present and thanked Paul and Mary for their years of work with the Lions Club, the park and the school. Mary will remain here until school closes and continue her teaching duties until then, after which time, she will join her husband at Leirtrim, just outside Ottawa.

So far, no park superintendent has been chosen to replace Paul here. Since the transfer came up so suddenly, an appropriate gift has yet to be chosen, the possibilities being an assortment of photos by the young photographer who took so many photos of Cobocok or possibly a sketch of their house which will be given Paul and Mary at a later date. We wish them well in their new location.

Friends of Mrs. Cliff Suggitt are so sorry to learn of her serious illness. Jean took ill just last Saturday, April 28 and was rushed to Lindsay's Ross Memorial Hospital. It was discovered there that she needed more help than was available there, so a helicopter flew her from Lindsay to Toronto's St. Michael's Hospital. Jean suffered a ruptured heart valve, and then kidney and lung problems developed. Our prayers are with this gallant lady who has bore more than her share of sorrows in life. May God bless and make you well, Jean.

Another sick lady, Margaret James was admitted to hospital this past week and underwent more surgery. Margaret was with her daughter at Norland when she was taken to hospital but had been, Lillian Tufts here.

The township recreation park committee has just been granted money to hire 6 full-time students for the summer months. Students must be mature, in full-time attendance at school and registered with the Manpower office. Students may write Mrs. Mary Wooton if interested in a job, stating any experience if any, etc.

The A.L.M.F. met Wednesday May 2 at Faith Tabernacle for their monthly meeting. The meeting opened with singing of choruses, and prayer by Ethel Farrow. Myrtle Faulkner had a reading from Proverbs. Frances Farrow read a letter from the Welshes who are missionaries in Mexico. Minutes were read and approved and treasurer's report given on motions of Myrtle Faulkner and Olga Weaver. Since no more dime cards were available, a "quarter" container was passed for extra quarters and dues taken. Special prayer was offered for Letty Wessell, Jean Suggitt and Mary James who are all so ill. There was an appeal for Campbell Soup labels, so we were asked to save those.

Money was designated to the Welshes; to the Sister Hunt fund, to Shiloh Christian Centre and to Sister Joan

Guild Station Gallery
With the Station Gallery nearing completion and our occupancy of those premises close at hand, the Visual and Performing Arts group have undertaken a special event to involve local crafts people in the Gallery and its grand opening scheduled for July 14.

This event is an invitation for all crafts people from Haliburton County to submit their work under a railway theme entitled "Tracks". These pieces will be exhibited at the summer show with a selection being chosen for exhibit at the Station Gallery's grand opening. For details contact Mary Wallace, 286-2263.

The Gallery opening will also contain a display of works by noted Ontario crafts people.

The special performance of "Dirty Work at the Crossroads" performed by the Bancroft Little Theatre and held at the high school was well received. One happy spectator has reported that the acting was excellent and plans have been made for this very talented group to return this summer for another performance.

Slide Presentation
Dixie Augusteign has kindly offered for viewing to all interested Guild members her series of slides on the World Crafts Council Show held in Japan in 1978. If you are interested, the viewing will be held June 7, 7:30 p.m. at the new Station Gallery.

Stanhope notes by A. F. Stevenson

Some Stanhope residents will have read the recently published financial highlights of the Stanhope Township Financial Report and, as a consequence, will be filled with more than a little concern re: the township's financial position. On the surface it appears to be a discouraging one, but an examination of the auditor's itemized report and a discussion with the reeve and with the township clerk-treasurer provides more encouragement than is found in the bare figures.

The deficit of $41,189 as shown in the statement is less of a shocker when one considers that there is on hand a stockpile of gravel with a value of $22,000. Since this asset does not appear in the assets listed its value was not used to reduce the deficit. Had this been the case the deficit would actually have been $19,189. Part of this was the unavoidable result of rising costs due to the inflation which has hit all of us right in the pocket book. A larger part was due to the addition to the township offices and also to the township's share in the completion of the firefighter's hall. Some will protest these expenditures while others will approve of them. It would appear that in both cases the township got a good deal and that the expenditure was worthwhile. It has to be remembered that in the case of the firefighter's community hall, work has to be completed, after which final grants are received, and until these payments are received a distorted financial picture may result.

Adding things up it appears that benefits will accrue to the township during 1979 from 1978's financial transactions. However, rising costs being with us it can be taken for granted that council will be looking for ways to curtail spending in the upcoming budget without curtailing essential services.

Representatives of Stanhope's several volunteer committees met last Thursday to discuss with Ms. Linda Marshall of Wintario the matter of planning a special day for Stanhope during the coming summer. The discussions brought forth several suggestions and as a result, a sub-committee was formed to look into the possibilities and plan a suitable program of events. It is hoped that after further consideration the committee will come up with a program of events that will provide Stanhope with a very creditable day of activities.

The Monmouth Senior Citizen Club is happy to welcome back members who have been south for the winter months. George Grant was one of the first to return and was welcomed by the group. The weekly attendance of the members has been good. Meetings will continue on in the afternoons through the summer. Recently the United Church choir provided a very enjoyable time when they entertained with their excellent singing. A number of those taking part were senior citizens.

A new store will be opening in Wilberforce in the very near future. It is located next door to the library and will be operated by Glen Storey. It will be open seven days a week from ten a.m. to ten p.m. and will offer a complete line of groceries and conveniences. Best of luck to the Storeys in their new venture.

A number of people from Monmouth attended the play produced by the Bancroft Theatre Guild entitled "Dirty Work at the Crossroads". This was held in Haliburton last week and was well worth the trip. It turned out to be a good, old-fashioned melodrama and won plenty of applause from the audience with laughs, boos and hisses from the villain and encouragement for the hero. We have a real need for theatre in the county. There are many residents who would be willing to support such a group.

The monthly meeting of the Anglican Church Women took place May 2 at the home of President Eileen Agnew. A colourful quilt was tied by many willing hands after which prayer and then a business discussion was held. Later came a special event celebrating the 90th birthday of a long time member, Mrs. May Croft. Mrs. Croft, who doesn't look a day over 80, received many gaily wrapped gifts and had a wonderful time opening and admiring the contents. She noted that it was the first shower that had ever been given in her honour. She had her picture taken blowing out the candles on her birthday cake which took some doing as the candles were trick and refused to be extinguished after the greatest huffing and blowing. Everyone had a most enjoyable time.

There is going to be a puppet show at the Stanhope library on Saturday, May 12 starting at 1 p.m.

The library will be open at this time so all the parents will be able to browse around and choose some books for either them or their children. So come on everyone and bring all the kids to the puppet show.

Sorry to report that Merle Redner has been sick with Pneumonia for the last week. Hope she is soon feeling better.

David Fader of Lindsay spent the weekend with his grandparents, Earl and Merle Redner.

Bob and Iris Merideth and family of Toronto spent the weekend at their cottage here.

Farm News Views

Some 160 members have joined 4-H agricultural clubs in Victoria and Haliburton Counties. There are 17 clubs between the two counties. Projects include beef, dairy, sheep, goat, pony, garden, field crops, farm machinery and veterinary science.

There are 29 volunteer leaders in charge of the 4-H program.

4-H is for boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 19 as of January 1, 1979. Deadline for enrolment was May 1, 1979.

All 4-H clubs elect a club executive. About 30 executive 4-H members attended an Officers Workshop on Tuesday, May 1 at the Agricultural Office. Parliamentary procedure and officers' duties were discussed. A 4-H club executive consists of a president, vice-president, secretary and news reporter.

The following are executive members of some of the Victoria and Haliburton 4-H agricultural clubs. Haliburton 4-H club - Jim Wruth, Jack Burk and Allan Barnhart; Kinmount 4-H Pony Club - Susan Dettman, Christine Longford, Laurie Scott and Janice Woolfrey; Victoria 4-H Garden Club - Susan Bowen, Karen Rodman, Larry Bowen, Evelyn Chambers and Sharon Snodden; Victoria 4-H Machinery Club - Steve Little, Shawn Westland, Larry Bowen, Pam Keeler; Victoria 4-H Field Crops Club - Dick Nobb, Ron Ashmore, Karen Rodman, Dennis Callaghan; Kawartha 4-H Dairy Calf Club - Keith McGriskin, Susan Mulligan, Janet Stuart, Mary Anne Mulligan.

West Guilford News

by Jackie Barry

Mrs. Jean Carr and Mrs. Mary Barry of West Guilford spent Tuesday with Mrs. Kathy Anderson.

Mrs. Helen Miller, Sandra and Susan of St. Catharines visited her mom and dad, Charlie and Gloria Billings for a week recently.

Mrs. Clem Boyd has returned home from a holiday with her daughter, Jean in Vancouver, B.C.

It certainly is nice to see road work underway. This is a tourist area and I'm sure our roads left a lot to be desired. If you drive north, through Algonquin Park area, that is what I call beautiful highways.

Mrs. Kathleen Bates recently had knee surgery in Toronto. We are glad to see you home again Kathleen.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Billings holidayed in St. Catharines and Buffalo, U.S.A., a couple of weeks ago.

Visitors from Toronto for the weekend at their cottage home were Terry and Linda Stamp.

Ottawa relatives for the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. A. Anderson with Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Anderson.

Mrs. Ruth Madill of Manticoke and Mrs. Violet Billings spent one evening visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Glen Billings.

In at the "Uncle Tom" cabin in Hadlington for a few days was Mrs. Thomas Nickol and Mr. and Mrs. David Nickol of Trenton.

Our tourist friends from Lindsay were in at their summer home on Little Monmouth Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Finlay of Scarborough were at their apartment for the weekend.

Guests with Mr. Harold Lane for a few days were Jack, Bob and Grant Lane and friends.

Mr. Stan Walsh was a weekend visitor at his cottage in the village.

It was nice to have Mike and Winn Carberry of Oakville back for a visit at the farm.

Sunday afternoon Olive and Ernie Atkinson were surprised by family and friends prior to their leaving on a motor holiday out west.

Hope you have a good trip folks.

Mr. Don Thompson Sr. is presently in Haliburton hospital. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. Kevin Billings of Peterborough visited with his family on the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Vince Colborn of Bowmanville were at their cottage over the weekend.

A weekend visitor at Lake Lorraine was Dale Minor.

Year of the Child Household poison control

Glistening solvent bottles or colourful candy-like medicines are awfully tempting to toddlers. It is your responsibility as a parent to offer instruction, discipline and preventative measures to ensure your child's safety. Firstly, put all poisons out of reach. If your child is a climber then a lock may be necessary. With a magic marker show unhappy faces on dangerous products. Repeat the warning to your toddler that all marked soaps, medicines, cleaning solutions and creams with "bad faces" are not for children. If you regularly mark these items when you purchase them, the face may act as a warning to junior should they come into his hands when you are not around.

Know that some products recommend inducing vomiting and others don't. You should know the antidote for your products should split-second action be necessary. Be sure to do the action recommended. The danger of mistreatment can be worse than no action. If vomiting is required, keep "Ipecac" on hand. It is a product to induce vomiting, but in a pinch a teaspoon of salt or mustard powder would do. Call the doctor or the hospital for immediate advice. If out of the area and advice is needed you can contact the Poison Control Centre in Peterborough (phone number 1-743-2121) or Sick Children's Hospital in Toronto. They are available twenty-four hours a day. Knowing what is swallowed is essential.

All medicines should be kept in a very inaccessible cupboard. Throw away all expired medicines and transfer aspirins with regular screw top lids into childproof medicine tubes, labelling these clearly. Keep vitamins and sweet tasting cough syrups out of view too. They are tasty and given to the children, so they don't understand why they are available sometimes and not others.

It is best to make the bathroom out of bounds when the child is unaccompanied. This will make major dangers unlikely and will also eliminate endless toilet flushings and toothpaste artwork. When you brush your teeth allow him to brush with his own. Do this early to develop the habit and it will take some of the mystery and temptation out of self-exploration.

Dorset News

by Phyllis Briscoe

"The rung of a ladder was never meant to rest upon, but only to hold a man's foot long enough to put the other somewhat higher."

A bus trip is being planned to the Safari and the Botanical Gardens in Hamilton in June. A firm date has not been established but it will be either the 12th, 13th or 14th and we should know the exact date next week. The cost for each person will be $13 if we have a full bus. The gardens should be beautiful at that time and that is the only place where there will be any walking as you stay in the bus to go through the Safari.

Everyone is welcome on this trip, not just seniors and if you are interested would you

31. DEATH NOTICE

AT REST
At the Peterborough Civic Hospital on Saturday, May 5, 1979
Oscar Stewart Henderson
In his 64th year.

Beloved husband of Evelyn Sears; dear father of Darlene (Mrs. Gary McKnight) of Haliburton; loving grandfather of Cory, Jodie and Gavin; dear brother of Austin, Becca, Evva and predeceased by Pearl and Elzie.

It's lonely here without you We miss you more each day For life is not the same to us Since you went away. Silently we grieve And brush away our tears The memories you left behind Will last throughout the years. Your charming ways and smiling face Are a pleasure to recall You had a kindly word for each And died loved by all.

Always remembered by Elevean, Doug and family 32-P-9

In loving memory of Cecilia Young (nee Winn) who passed away May 14, 1972.

In that city of light on the hills far away, Where the sun never sets nor the flowers decay, She is with her Redeemer, free from sorrow and pain, And in God's own time we shall meet her again.

Sadly missed by sis, Mildred Wood and family. 32-P-9

32. IN MEMORIAM

CREGO - In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Alex, who passed away May 11, 1974.

We who loved you, sadly miss you As it dawned another year, In our lonely hours of thinking Thoughts of you are ever near.

Lovingly remembered, mom and dad, Connie, Bonnie, Reg, Malcolm, Luther, Ward, Claude, Phebe and Carrie. 32-P-9

ROSENBERG - In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Agnes, who passed away, May 13, 1977.

So many things have happened Since you were called away, So many things to share with you Had you been left to stay, Every day in some small way Memories of you come our way; please call the large residence at 766-2277 by May 21.

It has been reported to me that Dr. Steele, who has a summer home on Millichamp Lake, is a patient in a Toronto hospital, seriously ill.

Congratulations to Frank and Jeanette Large who celebrated their 44th wedding anniversary on Wednesday, May 2.

On May 29, the ladies of St. Mary Magdalene's Anglican Church are holding a rummage sale at seven p.m. in the Sunday school room. If you have any rummage to donate please leave at the church or call 766-2237 for pick up.

We are happy to report that Norman MacKay, who is a patient in Bracebridge hospital is improving steadily, for which we are all thankful. Also, Mrs. Helen Dollar, who has been in Huntsville hospital for some time seems to be showing some signs of improvement.

The wild geese have been going north in their vee formations in great numbers.

As cold as it is right now, May 5, we hope they are not making a mistake.

We are happy to welcome Harold and Margaret Beamish back to their summer home on Kawagama Lake after spending the winter in Texas.

John and Eldred MacKay have returned from Bowmanville where they went to meet their new grandson, Scott Phillip who arrive on April 24. The proud parents are Wallace and Donna MacKay and Scott is a brother for 4-year-old Gregory, who spent a week with his grandparents prior to their trip to Bowmanville.

On Friday, May 4, the interment of Arley Waloshuk took place at Paint Lake cemetery. Rev. Braham officiating. A number of friends and relatives were present. Her daughters Linda Vidican and Donna Hogan from St. Catharines were in the village a week prior to the service visiting their father, Will Waloshuk and their grandmother, Marion Tyson.

In summary, those with larger families and larger exemptions would be eligible for larger cost-of-living tax cuts. Those with lower taxable income receive maximum benefits while those with higher taxable incomes and greater ability to pay would receive smaller tax cuts.

And because personal exemptions are indexed to grow at the same rate as the consumer price index, cost-of-living tax credits would increase accordingly year after year.
